ST PETER'S GIRLS PREP SCHOOL

FROM THE HEADMASTER

A WORD ON INCLUSION . . .

Many parents are aware of the various initiatives and significant effort that has been put into ensuring that every child, parent, member of staff and visitor feels warmly welcome and 'at home' at St Peter's. This is, however, not something that can be achieved by the school alone - every person in the St Peter's community has a part to play.

If a 6-year-old girl, whose judgement and emotional intelligence are in the formative stages of development, makes what we would consider to be a racist comment, we must assume that this is a result of something to which the child has been exposed - whether it be the media, on play dates or overhearing adult conversations.

In the understanding that St Peter's will not tolerate discrimination of any form, the challenge for us is how we police this. Children of this age are only beginning to develop judgment. They do this by emulating adults and peers. The reactions to their behaviour and speech serves to shape their opinions and to demonstrate to them what is, and is not, acceptable. The role of the school AND the family is to provide the requisite guidance. This has to be a shared responsibility!

I believe and I know the Anglican Church would agree, that we have a joint responsibility to be agents of change! We have to be strong enough to challenge racial innuendos, monitor optics and be emotionally mature enough to understand how other people can perceive actions and words. I don't believe there is a finishing line in this process but I do know we have work to do - on ourselves and with our children, every day! In the same way, we need to teach our children the hurt caused by stereotyping people according to their race, their body shape, physical or intellectual ability and all the other differences that make humans such interesting and fascinating beings.

I, therefore, appeal to parents to make a deliberate effort to talk to their daughters, at every opportunity, about diversity and the crucial need for us to celebrate our differences and similarities. This can only be achieved if we, as the adults in their lives, are modelling this behaviour on a daily basis.

From the school's point of view, we need to be better and more deliberate in our efforts to speak to our girls about diversity. To this end, we have engaged with a company called Kopanya Institute to train all our teachers, in this regard, next year.

As Nelson Mandela said: 'We must work for the day when we, as South Africans, see one another and interact with one another as equal human beings and as part of one nation, united, rather than torn asunder, by its diversity.'

BEREAVEMENT GROUP

As the saying goes, 'Christmas time is family time!' This is so true, however, for some this Christmas will be a difficult time as they have had to deal with the reality of losing someone special in their lives. Death is not easy to cope with and often a little extra TLC and the openness of a group of people can assist one in coping.

We will be holding our Bereavement group session on Tuesday, 26 November from 07:30 in the morning until 08:30 in the Council Chamber.

This time around, we are opening our group up to all children of St Peter's who have experienced loss in their lives and who would benefit from this session. Many children have bounced back, but there are many who will find this time painful. This is for them.

Wendy Wentzel, our school psychologist, and I will run the group at no charge. Should you want your child to attend please notify them of the session and time, as well as their class teacher who would be able to follow up with them that morning.

Blessings
Fr Richard

SEFIKENG HOOKS

'It is what we make out of what we have, not what we are given, that separates one person from another' (Nelson Mandela)

Continuing from an incredibly successful #MandelaDay2019, our Grade 7 boys were tasked with transforming what began as 'tagged for the rubbish pile' desks into awesome pieces of functional art! Our team of 'worker bees' recognised the value of the remnants of a number of old, broken, but very beautiful desks and chairs on the day, and with pure determination, sweat and eventually the right tools, we had 29 pieces of raw wood that told of an age old story of learning and growth.

Mr Sean Creamer accepted the challenge and the transformation began... our Grade 7 boys worked solidly over 3 weeks - sanding, painting, measuring, drilling, screwing and testing.

These 'pieces of junk' that have literally stood the test of time and hours of hard use by hundreds of children, have become beautiful coat hooks that we hope will be loved by many of our St Peter's family, as much as we love them. Should anyone be interested in purchasing one for R900, please message Colleen (082 391 0554). They will be sold on a first come first served basis. 100% of the proceeds will go directly to the Foundation for a future Sefikeng project.
